

Judge Okays Perrytown Petition

County Judge Orle O. Byers today ruled favorable to a petition by property owners to incorporate an area three miles east of Hope along Highway 67 to be known as Perrytown and have a population of about 100.

The first hearing on the petition was Sept. 18 but postponed when opposition was encountered. The original plat of the township was for 2,220 acres. After some property owners opposed a replat was made reducing the area to 730 acres and eliminating property of opponents.

One of the main backers for the township is Perry Campbell who operates a truck stop and motel and cafe in the area. The opposition was led by Delight Egg, Farms, Inc. which has extensive poultry operations and an egg processing depot in the area.

Barring an appeal of today's decision to Circuit Court the next step will be to file articles of incorporation with the State of Arkansas.

Says Warden Must Be Law Enforcers

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Ed Asbaugh, head of the legal division of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, said Tuesday that if game wardens did not assume they had the rights of other law enforcers the state's fish and game laws would be nullified.

He told the Southeast Association of Game and Fish Commissioners the game warden can wind up the defendant in court, being prosecuted rather easily by a man he has arrested.

The reason for this is the ill-defined legal role of the wildlife law enforcer, Asbaugh said. If an arrest attempt results in a physical struggle, the game warden can easily be charged with assault and battery, he said.

He added that since game wardens deal only with misdemeanors, there is no such thing as a justifiable homicide during an arrest attempt.

Asbaugh said, game wardens proceed "at their own risk" on the position that they have the same rights as other law enforcers and thereby maintain respect for the game and fish regulations.

Sentenced on Charge of Narcotics

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Garland Circuit Judge P. E. Dobbs sentenced William T. Smith 25, of Hot Springs, and Jimmy Brown, 20, of Little Rock, Tuesday to five years in prison and fined them $1,000 each on charges of possessing narcotics.

The five-year sentences were suspended at the recommendation of Prosecutor David Whittington. He said he made recommendation because of the youth of the defendants and because he felt no useful purpose would be served by sending them to prison.

Smith and Brown were charged after a raid on a Hot Springs motel room in August. Officers confiscated a tobacco can half full of marijuana. Brown was taken into custody at the motel and Smith was arrested later at a Hot Springs bar.

Brown had previously pleaded guilty to the charges and Smith entered a "no contest" plea Tuesday morning. Whittington said he recommended a maximum sentence as a closer watch could be kept on the two.

Largest Crowd Ever Expected

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Perfect weather, the Beverly Hillbillies and President Kennedy are expected to attract record crowds to the Arkansas Livestock Exposition, which opened Tuesday.

The weather and the Hillbillies combined Tuesday and an unprecedented opening night full house showed up for the championship rodeo.

The President is to make an appearance at the exposition at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Also at the exposition was an assortment of the usual unusual Midway exhibits—side show freaks, fun house, foods, cars, household appliances, political booths, flowers, dozens of games and prizes, beer gardens and more.

Some Data on How to Tell When You've Reached That Landmark of Middle Aged

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How can you tell whether you are middle-aged?

This point is puzzling to many who have heard that the harvest years are the best years, but aren't quite sure whether they themselves have reached this landmark of living.

Actually, however, there is little doubt about it once you really do reach middle age. You're there for sure if—

You feel too old for touch football but too young for croquet.

Your scalp gets sunburned higher up than it used to, and it takes you less time in the morning to comb your hair.

While reading the evening newspaper, you reach down more often to pat your old dog—and hope he won't insist on taking you for a walk.

Every new joke you hear reminds you of an old joke that seems funnier. In fact, anything that happens reminds you of something that happened earlier—and was better.

It comes as a big surprise that Stan Musial is retiring from baseball. Why it seems like only yesterday he was a kid just breaking into the game.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department has ordered the armed services to take an exhaustive inventory of any racial discrimination in transportation, education, public accommodations, housing and other facets of life near military bases.

The Associated Press learned today that Assistant Secretary of Defense Norman Paul sent the order for an "off-base equal opportunity inventory" on Sept. 24. He set a Nov. 8 deadline for replies. "The basic objective is to obtain necessary information for the formulation of future policy," the Pentagon said.

It declined to make public Paul's memorandum to the services on grounds it is an "official working paper."

However, the department did furnish a copy of a three-page inventory form to be filled out by each base command.

The form listed 17 separate major questions and topics Paul wants covered.

It was not said how base commanders would collect the material. Presumably, military personnel will be sent out to make on-the-spot checks in communities surrounding the bases.

This newest action in a series of Pentagon moves aimed at easing discrimination against Negro servicemen appeared likely to meet strong criticism from Southern members of Congress.

The questionnaire delves, among other things, into local customs and laws and local law enforcement questions.

Two of the instructions are phrased this way: 1. "Briefly describe any local customs or laws which prevent or are enforced in a manner which discourage voluntary off-base association by white and Negro military personnel."

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—It is his patriotic duty to keep rain away from Greeters Ferry Dam Thursday while President Kennedy is there, rainmaker Homer Berry said Tuesday.

Berry said he would set up his rainmaking machine in the area to keep rain away, but added that rain will come after 2 p.m., after the ceremonies are over.

The rainmaker said he won't charge for his service.

Arkansas River Work May Halt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., said Tuesday unless a Senate log-jam is broken, work on the Arkansas and White River basins will end by Jan. 1, 1964.

Cramer said Army Engineers had set Dec. 1 as the date for ending construction on the Arkansas River basin and Jan. 1, 1964, for the White River basin work.

He suggested the House pass a new bill authorizing additional funds for river basin development. The House had adopted a two-year $784 million river basin program to end June 30, 1965.

The Senate, Cramer said, eliminated all river basin authorizations for 1965 and reduced 1964 authorizations to $161 million. It also added seven highly controversial new projects which would cost $449 million to the bill, said Cramer, a member of the House Public Works Committee.

He said the Senate's elimination of six projects forced Army Engineers to set dates for ending construction on the Arkansas and White rivers.

McNamara Probably Has No Answer

By ROY ESSOYAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara probably found no final answer in South Viet Nam to two important questions.

He probably didn't learn how to get President Ngo Dinh Diem to do what the United States thinks must be done to win the war against the Communist Viet Cong. Or what would happen if Diem were overthrown.

But McNamara left for Washington Tuesday with a massive report that should help President Kennedy make one crucial decision—whether the Communists can be defeated if the United States continues to support Diem's authoritarian and increasingly unpopular regime.

The defense secretary probably had much of the information he got here before he left Washington last week. One highly placed, sympathetic diplomat described McNamara's trip as "a piece of necessary showmanship" for the benefit of a U.S. Congress increasingly hostile to the American commitment in South Viet Nam.

McNamara covered more than 2,000 miles in his swing through major war zones.

He conferred with Diem three hours. The visit probably was too brief to get across more than an impression of U.S. displeasure with Diem's repressive tactics.

McNamara's report probably will follow the line of previous observations of American officers on the scene. An intelligent guess can be made on its main points.

On the basis of recommendations available before he arrived, McNamara probably will recommend no increase in the force of 15,000 U.S. military men in Viet Nam and no increase in the current $1.5 million daily in U.S. aid.

He may suggest, on purely military grounds, a modest cut in American personnel or U.S. aid in line with known U.S. and Vietnamese suggestions.

He may recommend an increase in fighter aircraft and helicopters. McNamara may tell Kennedy that if U.S. aid was suddenly cut off, Vietnamese forces would have sufficient supplies to operate—after a fashion and with much less mobility—for 6 to 12 months.

McNamara saw no evidence Diem had instituted any reforms—such as Kennedy has been suggesting—since the secretary visited Viet Nam 16 months ago.

He probably will report the political-religious crisis sparked by Buddhist suicides and demonstrations has not had an appreciable effect on the morale of government troops so far, but if the ruthless political tactics continue the situation could become dangerous.

McNamara probably will report the Viet Cong is being pushed back in the central highlands and northern provinces.

Jailbreakers Escape From Two Officers

PERRY, Okla. (AP)—Two jail breakers being returned to Wichita, Kan., overpowered two officers in Payne County, Okla. Tuesday night and fled in the officers' car.

The fugitives, John Engberg, 29, of Denver, and Oscar Floyd Wharton, 36, of Little Rock, left the officers handcuffed to a tree and escaped in the unmarked police vehicle with the officers' guns.

The two men are considered dangerous. They were held for armed robbery when they broke out of the Sedgewick County Jail in Wichita Sept. 25.

The Kansas officers, James Tapp and Max Christman, managed to free themselves with keys overlooked by Engberg and Wharton. They had to talk two miles before reaching a telephone to give the alarm.

Engberg and Wharton broke out of the Wichita jail by threatening jailers Chris Brasfield and a Trusty, L. T. Baker, with a knife and a nightstick.

They were arrested in Little Rock, Ark., in the company of a woman who was later released. They waived extradition and were being returned by Tapp, captain of the Sheriff's Investigation Unit, and Christman, director of the Sheriff's Reserve Department. Both are in their 60's.

The fugitives are armed with .38 caliber pistols and a sawed-off shotgun carried in the police vehicle.

The escape occurred about 20 miles east of Perry, Okla., and 20 miles south of the Kansas border.

Engberg is a brother of Roy Lee Engberg, 27, convicted last February in the killing of a special officer in Kansas City, Mo.

ALGERIA (AP)—Berber multi-manned cannon on Algerian mountain ridges today, vowing to defy President Ahmed Ben Bella even at the cost of civil war. Ben Bella forces announced plans to arm vigilante committees to fight, if necessary with loyal Army troops.

The announcement was made by Hadj Ben Alla, chief organizer of Ben Bella's ruling Front of National Liberation (FLN).

"The vigilante committees will safeguard the revolution and fight against counterrevolution," Ben Alla said.

"If necessary, they can fight alongside our Djinnous (soldiers)," Ben Alla said. "They will be formed in every town, every village."

Meanwhile, government troops threw a ring of roadblocks around the dissident Kabylie area in an effort to isolate the rebels.

$12 Million in Federal Grants

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas received $12,866,124 in federal aid grants last month, state Treasurer Nancy J. Hall said Tuesday.

She said this was an increase of $2,761,809 over September 1962 and brought to $40,451,679 the total received this year.

General state revenues amounted to $8,501,740; special revenues $5,510,972, she said.

Last month's deposits brought to $107,816,264 the total amount handled by the office this year—$27,713,740 more than was handled in the same period in 1962.

Production of Red Meat Down

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Red meat production at commercial slaughter plants in Arkansas during August was 9.7 million pounds, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

Not Listening Says Barry of Hedging

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater said today that he is hedging his conservatism to angle for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination have not listened to what he is saying.

Goldwater, Arizona Republican who is considered a front runner for a nomination he still insists he isn't seeking, said in an interview that he hasn't changed his position on any fundamental issue in recent speeches he has made in all sections of the country.

"Some of the people who are saying that I am modifying my conservative position just haven't been reading what I have been saying," he said.

"Of course, I think there would be something wrong with any man in public life who didn't change some of his ideas to meet the developments of the time," he added. "Consistency is not necessarily a virtue. But I haven't changed my stand on any fundamental issue and I don't intend to."

About the only concrete example of a shift in position that Goldwater could think of off hand was his conversion to support of the Kennedy administration's proposal to close the attorney general with authority to file suits to enforce school integration.

"I opposed that in the past but if the attorney general feels that he needs this authority, then I am willing to give it to him, provided that it is restricted to specific cases and is not used as a blunderbuss."

But Goldwater said he continues to be opposed to the use of federal forces to enforce desegregation except as the President's authority in this field is outlined in the Constitution.

He said this means that the President can send troops where a governor or state legislature request them, to put down an insurrection or rebellion and to enforce a federal court's edict.

But he said he doesn't agree with the Kennedy administration contention that the federal government has authority to intervene—in the absence of these constitutional provisions—to enforce the general civil rights of any individual.

Goldwater said he wasn't moving toward the center in subscribing generally to remarks made by Gerald R. Skibbins, Princeton, N.J., research executive, and erroneously attributed to the Arizona senator by the Congressional Record.

Goldwater corrected the record Tuesday to show that Skibbins, rather than he, made an Aug. 24 speech in Montclair, N.J. The senator said he had ordered the speech put in the Record but did not know how the mixup occurred.

Skibbins said, among other things, that many Americans "squirm when they hear the label 'conservative' because they think of pre-World War II isolationism, John Birch Society members, America Firsters, Segregationists, Ku Klux Klansmen, and many other little groups who feel that freedom means an extra-legal hunting or hating license rather than a responsible privilege held under law."

Murder Story

port," Roach said.

In Hartford, Police Chief John J. Kerrigan said Santuccio had been idle recently, but ran a pizza restaurant until about three months ago.

Valachi had testified Tuesday that Santuccio, or Doyle, lived in Stamford, Conn., in 1960 and was in juke box and other businesses. He told the senators today that was a slip of the tongue — that he meant to say Hartford.

When Valachi got down to telling about Masseria's slaying, he said that at the time he belonged to a rival gang known as the Maranzano group, and it was waging war with the Masseria group.

But Valachi said it wasn't his group but Masseria's own underlings who gunned down Masseria down.

Valachi said "there was peace" between the two mobs after Masseria's murder.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., went before the Senate investigation subcommittee at the start of today's session with a protest that "by coincidence" there is a Robert Doyle in Stamford — and only one man there of that name — who has been deeply embarrassed by the testimony.

Ribicoff said the Stamford Doyle is a respected business man of Irish extraction, some 20 years younger than the hoodlum Valachi had named as an underworld trigger man in three 1930 gangland slayings.

Lt. John Roach of the Hartford police force was sworn as a witness and testified he had known a Hartford Doyle for about 10 years.

"He hangs around the streets and has no visible means of support," Roach said.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., the subcommittee chairman, said he was "awfully sorry" about the mixup.

Valachi spent most of Tuesday telling of assassinations and gang warfare back in the 1920s and 30s when hoodlum killers carried their machine guns in violin cases.

The big, crowded hearing room grew hushed as he described his ritual, Mafia-like initiation into the crime syndicate which he calls La Cosa Nostra, "Our thing" in Italian.

"This is my doom, what I'm telling you now," the 60-year-old hoodlum said grimly after relating how he was sworn in with a knife and gun before him, his finger pricked to draw blood and a piece of paper burning in his hand to remind him that he too would be burned to ashes if he broke his oath.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., announced his Senate investigation subcommittee has "two or three more murders" from the past on which to question Valachi before bringing his testimony back to crimes of the present.

The subcommittee is investigating the purported nationwide crime syndicate operations, with Valachi as a major witness. And it has said that police testimony will corroborate Valachi's testimony.

The subcommittee has indicated the aim of the hearings is to draw public attention to the racketeering activities and to explore the possible need of new laws to battle organized crime.

Valachi has told the senators he wants to destroy La Cosa Nostra through his testimony because it exploited rank-and-file members like himself and has marked him for execution as an informer.

He has named Vito Genovese, now in prison as a narcotics racketeer, as La Cosa Nostra's dominant power, and linked Genovese's name with bloody gang wars for power.

The subcommittee's overnight recess interrupted Valachi's testimony of a double cross.

He swore Genovese and the notorious Salvatore "Lucky" Luciano lured another New York gangster, Giuseppe Masseria, to his "death meal" in a Coney Island, N.Y., restaurant to set him up for gang war execution.

Luciano, who was described in the past as one of the leaders of the nation's vice and narcotics rackets, was deported after World War II and died in Italy last year.

The recess came before Valachi had a chance to describe the actual murder of Masseria which the New York authorities list as unsolved.

Masseria was slain April 20, 1931, in a war with another mob headed by Salvatore Maranzano, himself a later victim of the war.

Valachi told of accepting without question "contracts" for murder, including the slaying of James Catania, also known as Joe Baker, on Feb. 3, 1931.

Six bullets cut Baker down as he walked toward his office. Valachi said the actual killing was done by Salvatore "Sally Shields" Shillitani, Nick Capuzzi and a Chicago mobster known as Buster who looked like a college boy and carried a machine gun in a violin or guitar case.

Valachi said he was not involved in the actual killing but was present and carried a machine gun in a violin or guitar case.

Certainly Senate Most Deliberate

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Admirers of the United States Senate like to call it the greatest deliberative body in the world.

Less enthusiastic observers have been known to agree only that it is the most deliberate.

In any event, it is taking its time with the big tax reduction bill that President Kennedy declared last January — nearly nine months ago — "is urgently needed to spur the growth of our economy."

The bill, which Kennedy has called "the most important domestic economic measure to come before Congress in the last 15 years," may even get sidetracked until next year.

The $11-billion tax cut has passed the House. The Senate probably will not take it up until after it has disposed of the Kennedy administration's civil rights proposals.

Congress is under heavy pressure on the civil rights issue, and the House may pass a bill within the next few weeks.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Sept. 14 that he intended to take whatever civil rights bill the House does pass, put it on the Senate calendar, and then call it up for debate as soon as possible.

That would mean a filibuster by Southern senators that could last no one knows how long.

Mansfield also said then that if the Senate can act on the tax measure this year, it probably will be the last bill brought up.

Another Is Jailed in Bombing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A third white man has been arrested and over 100 sticks of dynamite were found hidden in a wooded area in the continuing investigation of racial bombings.

John W. Hall, 36, of urban Gardendale, was charged with illegal possession of dynamite Tuesday. He posted bond—set at $300—shortly afterwards.

Robert E. Chambliss, 59, who was arrested Sunday by state investigators, also was free on $300 bond on the same charge. Chambliss posted bond shortly after a habeas corpus hearing in circuit court.

Charles Cagle, 22, of Birmingham, who was arrested with Chambliss Sunday, remained in jail on an illegal possession of dynamite charge pending a habeas corpus hearing today.

Col. Al Lingo, commander of the State Highway Patrol, said Tuesday night that state investigators found 133 sticks of dynamite in a wooden crate and 24 sticks lying nearby in a wooded area in North Birmingham, just outside the city limits. He hailed the discovery as significant in the investigation of bombings.

"We are stepping in the right direction. We are making progress," Lingo said.

The Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, former Birmingham minister and president of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, charged that the investigation appeared to be "a sham on the part of law agencies, in an effort to soothe the national conscience and placate Negroes."

Shuttlesworth issued a statement criticizing the investigation shortly after a circuit court jury — which included one Negro — found him guilty of parading without a permit on Good Friday and fined him $75.

Judge George Lewis Bailes added a term of 90 days to the fine. Shuttlesworth's attorneys appealed the sentence and he was released under $2,500 bond.

Shuttlesworth noted that his bond was $2,500 while that of the men charged with possession of dynamite was $300.

"Where are the FBI and the federal experts brought in — and what part did they play in this? Is this the best the nation can expect of the combined efficient forces of the federal, state and local law agencies?" Shuttlesworth asked.

Presidential advisors Kenneth C. Royall and Earl Blaik planned another round of conferences with white and Negro leaders today.

Man Charged With Murder

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Louis Voss, 41, of Malvern, was charged Tuesday with first degree murder in the fatal shooting of Ruben E. Norwood Sr., 59, of Malvern.

Prosecutor Lawson Glover's office said the charge was filed in Hot Springs Circuit Court, alleging that Voss shot Norwood with a .38 caliber pistol Monday.

Norwood was owner of the Norwood Lumber Co. of Malvern.

Glover quoted Voss as saying he fired when Norwood threatened him with a piece of brick during an argument over a house Norwood had sold to Voss.

Demos to Name Committeemen

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Tom Harper of Fort Smith, chairman of the state Democratic Committee, said Tuesday that a Democratic national committeeman will be named before the end of the year.

The post has been vacant since Pat Mahaffy resigned to take appointment to the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Harper and William J. Smith of Little Rock, legal advisor to Gov. Orval E. Faubus, have said they do not want the job.

About Jan. 1, the National Democratic Committee will meet to plan the 1964 National Democratic Convention at Atlantic City, N.J., next August. The states will be allocated delegates to the national convention at the meeting.

YOUNG LOVE ON THE ROCKS

By Helen Worden Erskine

Dear Helen: I met a boy who was all I ever dreamed of—tall, blond, muscular, persuasive. Since we were only in our freshman year at college, I didn't want to go steady. But he called morning, noon and night, drove me home from school took me to the best restaurants and swam and picnicked with me. My folks invited him to dinner every Sunday.

Then, when all our dates began ending in wrestling matches I broke off. One morning his aunt phoned. He wanted me. Seems he'd gone out with the boys, got assembled to wish the honoree well.

They played records and were served cold drinks and cake decorated on top with the words, Sweet 16. The guest of honor received many nice gifts.

Dear Helen: I am a nervous wreck between my eight children, ex-husband and unrequited love. I divorced when my youngest was a babe in arms. I had to accept State aid which isn't enough to feed, clothe and shelter nine humans.

Then along came a man who spoke sweet but had a family so regretfully I shut him out of my heart.

A day ago my ex-husband said he wanted to talk with me. The talk ended in a big fight. I feel so helpless. I'd like to be independent but with all these children it's hard. I'm 35 and not bad looking. Got any ideas? —Willing

Thinks JFK Could Okay Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators who are urging President Kennedy to clear the way for sale of wheat to the Soviet Union say he may discuss the problem today with his advisers and announce his decision before the week is out.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Allen J. Ellender, D-La., expressed belief Monday that the President has the authority to act on his own and should.

If the President waits for Congress to pass a resolution urging him to take executive action it could involve long debate and then "there wouldn't be any deal," said Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Ellender, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, said Kennedy may call an administration now - now on the politically question today.

The two senators expressed their views to newsmen after their committees heard from Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

The three who have been sounding out Capital sentiment on that the President is weighing the political as well as economic effects.

Official United Nations sources said in New York Monday that the Russians have indicated to American traders—but have not as yet made a firm offer—that they want to buy $250 million worth of U.S. grain.

In talks with American grain traders, Soviet negotiators have reportedly said they would like the shipments to begin no later than early November.

All American wheat exports are subsidized by the government by about 60 cents a bushel so it can compete for foreign markets. This is because the price support program pays the domestic price of about $2 a bushel, about 60 cents above the market price for the rest of the world.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, voiced the sentiment of those opposed to the deal when he said Congress had set a policy that sales at subsidized prices should not be made to the Soviet Union and said "it should not be done."

All 1964 Rambler Ambassador station wagons have as standard equipment a rear side-hinged door instead of a tailgate. This feature, with a roll-down rear window, facilitates loading and is especially beneficial when the optional third seat is ordered. Station wagons also are available in the Rambler Classic and American lines. Chromed roof-top luggage racks are standard equipment on all Classic and Ambassador station wagons.

New for 1964 is the Rambler Classic two-door hardtop, a newly added body style also available in the Rambler Ambassador series. All Rambler continue to have long-life features such as the ceramic-armored muffler and tailpipe system, 33,000-mile chassis lubrication and 4,000-mile engine oil change interval, galvanized body panels, the new wax coating to protect the car's paint while in transit, and the Deep-Dip rust-preventing paint primer process.

Program Is Based on Nostalgia

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Unique, unforgettable, powerful and exciting" were only a few of the glowing adjectives used Monday night to describe the late Humphrey Bogart in an illustrated story of his acting career on NBC.

The half-hour show, composed of lively scenes from old Bogart movies, newsreel film and some home movies, was the first of a new series called "Hollywood and the Stars."

The basic appeal of the program is its nostalgia. The film clips are woven together with considerable skill and wit. For instance, there was a lengthy sequence devoted entirely to death scenes played by Bogart during the period when as a heavy in gangster film after gangster film he was inevitable cut down in the climactic scene.

The narration accompanying the excellent pictures was read by Joseph Cotton. It was reverent but slightly high-flown and never caught the frank, earthy quality of the subject.

The series undoubtedly will prove popular, particularly with older viewers who remember the days when movies were not only big and exciting but when movie stars were larger than life.

One of the more interesting viewing prospects will be comparing the Oct. 13 "Judy Garland Show" with last Sunday night's CBS premiere. Although Judy came off beautifully, the surrounding show proved something of a shambles.

It was the work of Norman Jewison, the series' new producer, and a bunch of new writers pulled in after the original producer, George Schlatter, along with most of his writers, quit the show after four or five had been taped. The disagreement, obviously, concerned the hour's format.

Next Sunday's show also will be a Jewish effort, undoubtedly because CBS brass wants to establish a couple of "regular departments." The departments are, it seems, that tea party session, which didn't work out at all the first time, and the business with the trunk at the window, which hardly seemed worth the effort.

The first of Schlatter's shows will be used, according to present plans, the following week.

The undisputed big star of television for the next few days, of course, is that horsehide sphere. NBC will start its exclusive coverage of the world's series at 12:30 p.m. (EDT) with a 15-minute pregame short followed by the big event.

Lord Home Meets With Gromyko

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain's Foreign Secretary Lord Home carries the ball in the Western probe of Soviet intentions at a luncheon talk today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Western diplomatic sources speculated that Gromyko is in no hurry to push for a solution of East-West problems because his government is preoccupied with internal difficulties and its dispute with Red China.

They said, however, that Gromyko might bring up with Home today, or with Secretary of State Dean Rusk Wednesday, the Soviet proposal for a nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communists' military bloc in Eastern Europe.

Gromyko didn't mention this Soviet idea in his first discussion here with Rusk and Home Saturday. He is to talk further with Rusk at dinner Wednesday night.

The three foreign ministers and the heads of their U.N. delegations dined at the U.N. Monday night as guests of Secretary-General U Thant. No announcement was made after the dinner.

East-West German Officials Meet

GIESSEN, Germany (AP) — Three members of Communist East Germany's Parliament are visiting West Germany for what is described as "private" contacts with West German politicians.

The meeting is believed to be the first between politicians of the two Germanys since the Communists built the Berlin wall more than two years ago.

The three were invited by the Liberal Students League, an organization affiliated with the Free Democratic party, coalition partner in Chancellor Adenauer's government.

The NIGHT, The WOMAN

THE STORY: Todd Carden denies to his brother Blake that he murdered Valerie Hayward, but refuses to explain the circumstances that caused him to visit her yacht.

XV

"This noon"—Todd looked at the wall clock, saw it was past midnight — "yesterday noon she showed up at my office regardless, with a dangerous look in her eye. I eased her out of there as soon as I could—canceled an appointment and took her to lunch. She was boiling because the Mannings had decided against buying her house and boat. She'd already spent some of the money she wasn't going to get from them... so, of course, she had to have more blood from me—in a hurry."

"Val had just come into my office when you phoned," Blake said, "at a few minutes before three. Had you tried somebody else for a loan first?"

"There was nobody else to try. After lunch I was late for a conference—couldn't call you sooner." Todd asked a question in a wary tone, quickly, "What did she want from you?"

"She seemed to be feeling something out. What it was she didn't say."

Watching Todd closely, Blake sensed that hearing this had brought a reeling of relief. Why... He had no answer, except that Todd wasn't telling him the whole story.

"You had a phone call just before you left the house tonight," Blake was probing. "Who was it from Val?"

"No. Amalia. Val had left a message with Amalia. She wanted to see me right away—and there she was, practically in the middle of the bay. I think she'd gone out on that boat just to make it harder for me to get to her."

"You took the money out to her anyhow. Why was it so urgent?" Todd pointed in the direction of Val—his angry gesture.

"You don't understand Val as well as I learned to understand her—to my cost. Besides the satisfaction of that money, she wanted the satisfaction of seeing me knuckle under."

"For years Val kept striking back at the world—you know that. After her parents died she began getting sick, and after Alec's death she got worse. She never got over resenting the Wingates' discipline, or the love we all have for Ruth. That woman was capable of hurting anybody, hurting them deliberately, out of pure sadism."

This picture of Val, Blake

thought—a woman who would injure others without rational reason—was a deliberate distortion. Not only an exaggeration, but also an excuse. Todd was using it, unconsciously, to lessen his degree of blame, to play down his own weakness.

"It was a crazy risk all along, Todd."

"That it was, kid, and it got worse when she began using me."

Blake had been withholding a key question, waiting for an opening for it. At the beginning, when admitting that he had watched Todd's actions tonight, he had intentionally omitted saying that he had seen Val struggling with Todd. He put his question now in the form of a statement—deliberately setting a trap.

"You sailed out with the money, and now you're going to tell me that when you boarded that boat you found Val already dead."

"Why, no, kid, no," he said patiently. "It wasn't that way at all."

Blake was experiencing an odd mixture of feelings—a trace of shame because he had tried to trick Todd, chagrin because the bait had failed; but also a surge of hope, even returning trust. Todd had brushed aside a chance to deny—to deny falsely, but still deny—a damaging circumstance.

"No, kid, Val had been waiting for me, and one look was enough to warn me she was primed to explode. I handed her the money and she ignored it. I put it on the bar and she turned away, as if to say it wasn't enough. It was the worst possible time to raise an issue, but I'd finally made up my mind to tell her I was through, and I did. Then she let go—started raging at me, working herself up to a fury. Kid, you've never heard such a hateful tongue-lashing as that woman gave me. It was insane. She wound it up by stalking off and hanging out of the cabin."

This bit, at least, was so characteristic of Val that Blake could accept it without question.

"I let her go, hoping she'd cool off, but then I began to wonder what was keeping her out there on deck. I left the cabin and found her. It rucked me. She was sprawled out with her eyes closed, and spots of blood on her, and she looked dead."

Todd was pacing rapidly now, reliving the tension of these moments.

"But she wasn't dead. I began

Hard to Say Trip Is Not Political

James Marlow is on vacation for three weeks. In his absence his column will be written by other Washington and New York staffers. Today's column is by J. W. Davis of the Washington bureau.

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the more entertaining fictions in the legends of Washington is that a president can take a non-political speaking tour across the country.

For the president is not only president, he's the chief of his political party. And, likely as not, he intends to run again. It follows that almost anything he does or says is looked upon as political. This didn't start with President Kennedy's 10-state Western trip. Just think of his immediate predecessors — Dwight D. Eisenhower, Harry S. Truman, Franklin D. Roosevelt — they all indulged in the non-political trip with political aspects.

When Kennedy's itinerary was announced, it could hardly be overlooked that eight of the states he was visiting went for Republican Richard M. Nixon in 1960.

Nor could it be overlooked that conservative strength is perhaps growing in these states, and their electoral support could be crucial in the 1964 election.

The Kennedy trip was billed as one devoted to conservation, rather than politics.

Last Tuesday, Gov. George

Romney of Michigan accused Kennedy of playing politics in a meeting of representatives of Great Lakes states at Duluth, Minn.

It was a meeting called to consider conservation and economic developments. But, Republican Romney complained, the man he sent there wasn't even allowed on the platform. Instead, he said, Michigan was represented by a Democrat.

For another example, Kennedy spoke warmly in Wyoming of Sen. Gale Magee, Democrat who faces a fight next year. He had similar praise in Montana for Sen. Mike Mansfield.

In Salt Lake City, a Kennedy attack on certain foreign policy ideas was widely interpreted as an attack on the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a possibility for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

Kennedy's non-political trip called to mind a similar one taken by President Eisenhower in October 1958. Eisenhower wasn't running himself, but he wanted Nixon to succeed him.

Eisenhower was greeted in California by the Democratic governor Edmund G. Brown, who told him: "Don't do too much for Mr. Nixon."

Smilingly, Eisenhower replied: "This is a non-political tour, but I'll do all I can to see that Nixon is elected."

Another president who got fun out of such a situation was Harry Truman. In June 1948 he set out on what the White House described as a "nonpolitical, bipartisan trip."

That tag didn't last long. Truman told a crowd in Ohio, before the journey was hardly under way: "On this nonpartisan, bipartisan trip that we are taking here

Too Little, Too Late Bankers Say

(Editor's note — The U.S. payments deficit has been rising when it was supposed to fall. And in this last of five articles, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, tells why many bankers think steps to halt the dollar drain have been disappointing — and why they hope new plans being plotted may succeed.)

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — International bankers here criticize the U.S. government's efforts so far to get its accounts with other nations into better order as mostly too little and too late. But some add the hope that a recent apparent change of heart toward more cooperation with other na-

I understand there are a whole lot of Democrats present."

Ordinarily, the opposition doesn't get too exercised when a president chooses to call a trip nonpolitical. There was a sharp exception to this in 1944 when Roosevelt ran for a fourth term, against Republican Thomas E. Dewey.

Roosevelt announced he would not run "in the usual partisan, political sense."

Then he set out on a series of "inspection visits" all the way across the country, making appearances before thousands at military installations and defense plants — as commander in chief.

tions still can do the trick.

For two years now the United States has been struggling to save its remaining gold reserves, trim the disquieting buildup of dollars in foreign hands, keep the good name of the dollar above reproach, and at the same time fulfill all its worldwide commitments.

What has it been trying? And how do bankers here think it's been doing?

More exports is a prime goal. But difficulties (like the chicken war) pile up abroad and American industrialists say just chanting slogans isn't enough.

Spending abroad by U.S. officials and military personnel has been cut. But most moves have netted more protests than dollars saved, while the campaigns to get allies to shoulder more of the foreign aid burden have few victories to celebrate.

Outflow of private investment is being curbed by raising interest rates at home and proposing to make purchase of foreign stocks expensive. But bankers say the rates haven't risen far enough. Morgan Guaranty Trust economists say "the virtual commitment not to go significantly further in applying restraint, at least in the near future, disarms monetary policy as a weapon against the payments deficit."

And almost all bankers oppose the tax on buying foreign securities.

Foreign aid dollars are being earmarked for spending here. But some of this might be at the expense of getting back private dollars held abroad.

Curbs on U.S. tourist spending abroad and urges for foreign tourist travel to America are being tried. The dollar results so far seem small.

President Kennedy, plugging his tax cut proposals, sees this as increasing prosperity here. This could make U.S. investments more attractive to foreigners and Americans alike, thus bringing in more outside money and keeping more dollars at home.

Financial arrangements with the International Monetary Fund should help. David Rockefeller, president of Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, applauds the move to borrow up to $500 million in gold if needed to defend the dollar.

The close interlacing of the balance of payments and gold problems of the United States with the financial and economic affairs of the rest of the Western world has been tackled this week by the boards of governors of the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, the International Finance Corporation and the International Development Association in Washington.

New York bankers hope that new studies and new efforts will succeed where past attempts by this country alone have been disappointing.

Signing a Baseball Is Real Art

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When you're in baseball, autographing is an art," said Maury Wills, shortstop for the National League champions, the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Wills was in the office of his manager autographing copies of his book, "It Pays to Steal."

"A ballplayer has to learn how to write his name on anything," he said. "You have to sign every size of paper; some kids tear a piece into small bits so each one can get an autograph. Signing a baseball is an art in itself."

Signing autographs is one of the fringe areas of a big leaguer's life. Wills, the fleet base stealer, is appearing Oct. 10 on Eddie Adams' ABC show, playing "Casey at the Bat" as it might be done in Kabuki style. Next month, he and his folk singers co-star with Jane Powell for three weeks at the Sahara in Las Vegas.

"I'll play banjo and sing," said Wills. "I started playing the ukulele when I was in minor league ball in Spokane. A fellow player had one and he wanted a transistor radio, which was a prize for getting four hits in one game. When I won, I traded him for the ukulele."

When Maury stepped up to the majors, he graduated to the guitar and then the banjo. "I used to play it on the bus after we won a game," he said.

He admitted that he and the Public Is Tangled in Phone Digits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — 7887-

86845-93-24325!

Check the letters on your telephone dial and you'll find that this means:

"Stop until we check!"

This is the order that the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. got Monday from the Public Utilities Commission, which ordered PT&T to halt further conversion of telephone numbers to digit dialing until further notice.

The unanimously approved order was issued on the complaint of a group which calls itself the Anti-Digit Dialing League.

The PUC moved after the phone company had announced it would convert numbers in the San Francisco exchange to all-numeral next month. The decision said that "it appears that final determination of the issue" will take time beyond that.

At Several San Francisco hearings, the Anti-Digit Dialing League had pressed charges that by rearranging some codes, letter dialing would give up to five billion additional telephone numbers—more than enough for a phone for each person in the six-men combo could get bookings all winter. But that would be a mistake, he said.

"These sidelines are fine for a ballplayer," he said. "But some guys get so busy with the sidelines that they forget their main job is to play baseball."

Would Investigate Former Treasurer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.

Wayne Morse, D-Or., said in the Senate today the Justice Department should investigate to determine whether former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey committed perjury during the Senate stockpile investigation.

Humphrey, who served in the Cabinet of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, testified during the investigation about nickel contracts for stockpiling, signed during the Korean War just before he became secretary of the Treasury.

Morse, speaking generally, said the Justice Department "should proceed without delay" to take note of the fact Humphrey testified under oath.

"It should make a thorough investigation as to the possibility of serious discrepancies between his testimony under oath and the facts," Morse said, "because such an investigation is necessary to determine whether Mr. Humphrey has committed perjury, to determine whether necessary legal action and prosecution should be brought."

world.

The PT&T said: "Any delay in an orderly changeover to all numeral dialing brings us closer to a time when we will not have enough numbers available to serve the public."

The PUC ordered the utilities company to halt the renumbering series until it can be determined whether such a re-listing is necessary.

Rules Homicide Was Justifiable

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—A coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide Monday at Helena in the fatal shooting Saturday night of Jimmy Crawford, 31, of Elaine. Crawford was shot at a gin at Marvell. Troy Hartsfield was held in the Phillips County Jail at Helena pending the outcome of the inquest.

Sheriff E. P. Hickey said Hartsfield shot Crawford, and a brother, Billy Crawford, 25, as they tried to force their way into his truck. Billy Crawford was hospitalized at Memphis with a chest wound. Hickey said Hartsfield and a third brother, Jack Crawford, got into a fight last Tuesday. Jack Crawford, Hartsfield's brother-in-law, was hospitalized until Sunday from injuries received in the fight.

Jack Crawford swore out a warrant Monday charging Hartsfield with aggravated assault. Hickey said the fight precipitated the trouble with Billy and Jimmy Crawford.

Tokyo Curbs Airport Landings, Takeoffs

TOKYO (AP)—A new rule prohibiting takeoffs and landings between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. at Tokyo International Airport was declared in effect today as a concession to people who complained of their sleep being disturbed.

All went well until 4:55 a.m. when Pan American World Airways Flight 845 out of Los Angeles got in more than two hours head of schedule.

An airport official said permission to land was granted because this was the first day. Pan Am apologized.

Catholics Approve Redefinition

By BENNETT M. BOLTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Ecumenical Council approved for final debate today a key document to define anew the nature of the Roman Catholic Church in a modern world.

It is the schema (topic) "de ecclesia" ("about the church"). It received overwhelming endorsement in a revised, more simplified form demanded by progressive prelates. They said that in simpler form "de ecclesia" would help further Christian unity.

Criticizing the form of the schema as it was presented at the first meeting of the Ecumenical Council last year, these prelates said it must be recast in more pastoral terms.

The schema deals with the manner in which the Roman Catholic Church operates. Details are secret. However it wants to expand the role of Bishops in sharing the Pope's authority.

A council press office communiqué said 2,231 prelates voted for the schema, 43 voted against it, 3 voted for it "but with reservations," and 24 ballots were declared void because they were improperly marked. The required majority of the 2,301 fathers present and voting was 1,151.

Only a majority was required to put the schema before the council for discussion.

A two-thirds majority will be required for a final vote in plenary session, perhaps before the council's phase ends Dec. 4 or more likely in a session next year.

The vote at the council working session in St. Peter's Basilica gave the green light for detailed discussion of the schema, which examines anew the structure of the Roman Catholic Church and the rights and duties of the Pope, Bishops, priests and laymen.

In the detailed discussion which began immediately after the vote, the schema undoubtedly will undergo changes. Before it becomes an official document, there will be further votes on individual

How State Lawmakers Cast Ballots

WASHINGTON (AP)—How Arkansas members of Congress were recorded on recent roll call votes:

Senate

On Goldwater, R-Ariz., reservation, rejected 17-75, to provide that nuclear test ban treaty shall not become effective until Russia removes military base from Cuba: Against—McClellan, Fulbright.

On Tower, R-Tex., reservation, rejected 11-82, to hold up test ban treaty until Russia pays up its U.N. assessments: Against—McClellan, Fulbright.

On motion, adopted 61-33, tabling reservation which would have attached to test ban treaty an understanding that treaty does not bar use of nuclear weapons in an armed conflict: For the tabling motion—Fulbright, Against—McClellan.

On ratification, 80-19 of nuclear test ban treaty: For—Fulbright, Against—McClellan.

On Brynes, R-Wis., motion, rejected 199-226, to add an expenditure limiting provision to tax reduction bill: For the motion—Gathings, Against—Harris, Mills, Trimble.

On passage, 271-155, of tax re-parts and on the final text.

The importance of today's vote was that the council decided to go ahead with the schema, which had been revised from an original text strongly criticized at the council's first session last December as too academic and rigid in tone. An unfavorable vote today would have possibly shelved the topic.

Today's vote ended the general discussion.

Text of the schema is a council secret. However, it is known to expand the sharing by bishops in the Pope's authority.

The last Ecumenical Council, in 1870, defined papal infallibility and emphasized the supreme power of the pontiff. A complementary thesis on how the bishops as a body share in that authority never reached the floor.

The schema is considered a fundamental document upon which the council will base virtually all its work of reform and renewal.

Ben Bella Trying to Halt Revolt

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
TIZI OUZOU, Algeria (AP) — Troops loyal to President Ahmed Ben Bella entered the Kabylie mountain town of Tizi Ouzou today to stem a revolt of Berber units.

Cnl. Mohamed Ou El Hadj, removed by Ben Bella from command of the 7th military region, left Tizi Ouzou with his staff and some troops.

Algerian army officers said the dissident units set up roadblocks east and south of Tizi Ouzou but did not interfere seriously with the movement of government convoys.

Government troops closed all exits from Tizi Ouzou, 70 miles east of Algiers, and searched all cars and motorists leaving the area. Armored troop carriers mounting machine guns were parked in the city.

The troop commander, who declined to give his name, told newsmen, "for the time being, everything is calm. We receive orders directly from Algiers."

On El Hadj commanded some 8,000 to 10,000 men, most of whom served under his orders during the war for independence.

Government officers said a part of this force is forming guerrilla units in the steep Kabylie ranges. The government officers described the movement as a putsch and said the situation was serious.

Unconfirmed reports said Defense Minister Col. Houari Boumedienne was cancelling his departure for Moscow scheduled for tonight.

Ben Bella took personal command of the Defense Ministry with the departure for Moscow of Defense Minister Col. Houari Boumedienne, considered a strong man in the government. Previous reports said Boumedienne was canceling the trip which was set up to work out details of a 50 billion franc ($109 million) loan from the Soviet Union.

Berbers in the Kabylie area took to the streets Sunday shouting, "Down with Ben Bella!" Meanwhile an underground group calling itself the front of Socialist forces (FFS) proclaimed all-out war on Ben Bella's one-man rule.

The crisis erupted two weeks after Ben Bella's unopposed election as president and raised serious doubt that they would leave for New York next week as planned. He wants to appeal personally to the United Nations for a massive U.N. program to free Portugal's African colonies and South Africa from white domination.

Ben Bella said in a radio broadcast the crisis resulted from "a subversive movement threatening the security of the state."

His first move was to remove Greater Kabylie's wartime hero, Col. Ou El Hadj, as commander of the 7th military region for statements approving the opposition.

Big Increase in Tax Collections

The sales tax, considered one of the best economic indicators, continued to show a steady rise from $8,085,919 last September to $3,445,256 this month.

Special revenues increased $425,331 and general revenues were up $928,748.

Rights Group Is Checking Segregation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said today that the U.S. Civil Rights Commission is checking desegregation in Arkansas cities through a state committee.

Bennett advised mayors of the various cities that in his opinion they did not have to cooperate with this committee which is called the Arkansas Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

James E. Youngdahl, a law partner of former Gov. Sid McMath, signed a letter to mayors as committee chairman and said the committee had been functioning since the Civil Rights Commission was formed in 1957. He said its duty was to "collect information on the current status of development in the civil rights field."

Youngdahl said he had written to mayors in eight Arkansas cities asking them to meet with a committee member, Mrs. Ruth Arnold of Little Rock, to discuss preparations for desegregation demands and related issues.

Bennett released a copy of Youngdahl's letter and a copy of a letter he said he mailed to mayors of every first class city in Arkansas.

In the Bennett letter, he referred to members of the committee as "busybodies who are trying to stir up dissension and strife among the races . . . where no trouble exists."

"I would like to urge you and your council to advise Youngdahl-Arnold that they are not needed in your community and will only cause trouble where none exists," Bennett wrote.

Youngdahl said he realizes that anyone has a right to refuse an interview. "But," he added, "it is difficult to see why anyone would object to having fuller knowledge of current developments."

Youngdahl would not say which cities he wrote to, but he said emphatically that McMath was in no way connected with his committee.

2,394 Enrolled at Teachers

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Enrollment at Arkansas State Teachers college has reached a record high of 2,394. Dr. Silas Snaw, president, said the figure this year was 135 above the enrollment of last year.

Between 100 and 200 students had to be turned away because of lack of dormitory space, Snow said.

Pressure on Hurlers in World Series

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pounds of extra World Series pressure weighed heavily on the shoulders of opening game pitchers Whitey Ford of New York and Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles today because of unusual importance attached to the first game of the 1963 post-season classic.

Most experts agree pitching will be more of a dominating factor in this series than in any inter-league October clash since World War II. They point to the comparatively light team batting averages, .252 for the Yankees to .251 for the Dodgers, and the presence of only three .300 hitters—Tommy Davis, Maury Wills and Mickey Mantle—in the lineups.

A contributory factor is the determination of both managers to stick with three starting pitchers regardless of the length of the series. This means that should the series go seven games, as have all since 1955 except the 1959 and 1961 series, Ford and Koufax will probably face each other three times.

Thus the winner of the first Ford-Koufax duel—before some 70,000 at Yankee stadium—would have a vast psychological as well as an actual edge.

The odds favored Ford at 6-5, with the Yankees a 7 1/2 game favorite to gain their seventh triumph in eight World Series meetings with the Dodgers. The perennial American League champions have a 207 record in Series play, compared to 2-8 for the Dodgers.

Both clubs presented predominantly right-handed line-ups again to the left-handed slants of Ford and Koufax.

The only southpaw swingers, aside from Ford, in the Yankee batting order, were shortstop Tony Kubek, first baseman Joe Pepitone and right fielder Roger Maris. Switch hitters Mickey Mantle and Tommy Tresh naturally batted right-handed.

At a late hour Tuesday night, Manager Walter Alton of the Dodgers had just about decided to keep Ken McMullen, the injured rookie third baseman, on the bench, playing Dick Truczewski at second and switching Jim Gilliam to third. McMullen pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg last week.

Alton promoted Willie Davis, the hottest hitting Dodger in September, from seventh to third spot in the batting order, behind Maury Wills and Gilliam with Tommy Davis, the National League's leading hitter, in the cleanup spot.

Bill Skowron, the ex-Yankee, was at first base, batting sixth behind the right-handed hitting Frank Howard. He was followed by Truczewski, John Roseboro and Koufax.

The Yankees had the same lineup that played all season when Mantle and Maris were in there. Mickey batted fourth behind Tresh and in front of Maris. Kubek and Bobby Richardson batted one, two with Elston Howard, Pepitone, Clete Boyer and Ford comprising the bottom half of the order.

Freeway Exit Ramp Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Little Rock Freeway exit ramp to make the downtown section more accessible to traffic from the north will be built at East Sixth Street, acting state Highway Director Ward Goodman said.

Goodman said the Highway Department had been planning the ramp for about a year and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads has approved it.

He said the ramp which will cost less than $10,000 to build, will feed onto an access road and then to Sixth Street.

Thinks Porkers Will Eke Out Over Froggies

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The trouble in making the weekly college football selections is that not enough of the teams believe what they read. There were 14 such non-conformists last week but 40 others saw the light for .741 average.

This week's picks: Alabama over Vanderbilt: Joe Namath, Mike Fracchia & Co., should win this one while concentrating on the outcome of the World Series game.

Texas over Oklahoma State: The Longhorns want this one.

Northwestern over Illinois: Illinois is on the up-grade but so is Tom Myers, the Northwestern quarterback who already is regarded by many as the best in the land.

Navy over Michigan: Another game in which the quarterback may be the decisive factor. In this contest the person is Roger Staubach, the scrambling director of the Navy offense.

Georgia Tech over Louisiana State: This could easily go the other way, especially because it is being played in the Tigers' lair.

Southern California over Michigan State: They move this one from Saturday afternoon to Friday night so that there would be no conflict with the World Series game. The irate Trojans will move the Big Teners just as easily.

Pittsburgh over California: Fred Mazurek is the answer to Chancellor Hitchcock's suggestion to Coach Michelosen that the Panthers should play a more daring and entertaining type of football.

Mississippi over Houston: Without too much trouble.

Duke over Maryland: The game highlights the Tobacco Festival and the nation's television screens.

Penn State over Rice: Penn State has almost as much power on the field now as it has in the past.

Nebraska over Iowa State: The Cornhuskers veteran lineup includes Dennis Clardige, a quarterback who can do everything even to playing defense.

Ohio State over Indiana: The Buckeye line is too potent.

Arkansas over Texas Christian: The point is that Arkansas lost by a point last weekend and will be out for revenge.

Missouri over Idaho: Almost a walk.

Thinks TV Financing Is Illegal

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Pine Bluff city and Chamber of Commerce officials say the proposed method of financing educational television for Arkansas would be illegal.

The city and the chamber filed an answer with the Federal Communications Commission to a petition of the Arkansas Educational Television Commission, saying deficit financing in the state is illegal.

The answer said that without $300,000 the Arkansas commission has estimated will be made available by equipment manufacturers, a state educational channel will not become a reality in the foreseeable future.

An FCC examiner has recommended that station KATV (Channel 7) be allowed to donate its Pine Bluff facilities to the state commission and move its transmitting tower from north of that city to near Little Rock.

The Arkansas commission contends that if the move is denied, valuable equipment will be lost and advancement of the program delayed.

He was instrumental in financing construction of the Saline County Memorial Hospital at Benton and was chairman of the board at the time of his death.

Gingles was a member of the State Hospital Board during the administration of former Gov. Carl Bailey. He also was a former director of the economic council of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Survivors include his widow, the former Viola Brugh of Lone, Va.; two daughters; a brother; two sisters; and four grandchildren.

Some Notes on World Series

NEW YORK (AP)—How lucky can you get? A year ago right-hander Bob Miller was a member of the lowly New York Mets and had a 1-12 record with a 4.89 ERA. Today the 24-year-old pitcher from Buena Park, Calif., is a valued hand of the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers with a 10-3 record and an impressive 2.39 ERA.

"I said last year that this October I'd be in Yankee Stadium for the World Series," he said. "But I thought I'd be with the Yankees. I'm happy to be with the Dodgers, though."

A trade that came off happily for both parties was the deal that sent first baseman Moose Skowron from the Yankees to the Dodgers in exchange for right-hander Stan Williams.

After all these years with the Yankees, Moose had become accustomed to those fat World Series checks almost every fall.

The National and American Leagues each will play another 162 game schedule next season and opening day is Tuesday, April 14. That's all that was released after separate meetings by each league on the 1964 schedules.

Whitey Ford says he knows Sandy Koufax' weakness. "He can't hit," said the Yankee ace. "It's a problem, though. I don't think I'll be doing much hitting against him either."

Engineers to Resume Bid Openings

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Col. Charles D. Maynard, District Army Engineer, said Monday that engineers would take into account increased expenses of hauling rock and would resume bid openings for bank stabilization projects on the Arkansas River below Pine Bluff.

Bid openings were halted last month when the Arkansas Highway Commission lowered weight limits for trucks traveling on six southeast Arkansas secondary roads. The commission took the action, they said, because heavy trucks were damaging the roads.

Maynard said this would increase expenses for the Arkansas River project because contractors would have to pay the cost of using more trucks to haul the same amount of rock.

Maynard added, however, that if bidding gets highly competitive, the costs for the project may not go up.

"It may not cost any more but it's logical to assume that it will," Maynard said.

Delegations from the Arkansas Basin Association, Army Engineers and contractors tried to persuade the commission to restore the old load limit. They were sent to Gov. Orval Faubus.

Wednesday, commission chairman Wayne Hampton announced that the new limits would remain in effect.

The delegations maintained that the lower limits would increase the cost of the project, making it necessary to seek more money from Congress.

Hampton said the commission was obligated to protect state highways and secondary roads from abuse. He added that it might be necessary to lower weight limits on other secondary roads.

Army Engineers estimated previously that 5,500,000 tons of material might be hauled over the affected roads during the next three years.

The engineers said that bids would be opened Oct. 10 on a $700,000 bank stabilization project at Cooper Point, five miles south of Grady in Jefferson County.

They will open bids Oct. 17 on an $800,000 bank stabilization project at Pendleton in DeSha and Arkansas counties.

Bids were to have been opened on the Cooper Point project Sept. 5, and on the Pendleton project Sept. 4.

Magnolia, Hope Head Div. 4AA Standings

SPTS MAGNOLIA, HOPE

And then there were but two—two undefeated teams in Div. 4AA football conference after last week's action. Magnolia's surprising Panthers with a 2-0 loop mark and the high scoring Hope Bobcats with a 1-0 amrk lead the standings.

In last week's games Hope shattered, at least for the time being, the hopes of the Smackover Bucks with a 33-14 win. Magnolia downed the Crossett Eagles 20-6.

In non-league action Catholic HI defeated Malvern 21-7; Fordyce downed Camden 13-7, while Fairview was idle.

This week's top attraction will send the Panthers of Magnolia against the Buckaroos of Smackover at Magnolia in a test for Magnolia and a challenge for Smackover. The other loop contest will see Hope traveling to Malvern. Non-league action pits Fairview at Gurdon, Arkadelphia at Camden, and Crossett is idle.

In four games this season Hope has scored 85 points, almost double any other team in the league. The Bobcats are a strong running team with 357 yards rushing but pass when needed and have 165 net yards passing. The Bobcats have marched to 40 first downs and have had seven players score touchdowns and two players add extra points. The Hope record has a loss—a non-league defeat to Texarkana in their opener.

Magnolia is enjoying one of their best starts in recent years. The Panthers have three wins—two conference and one non-loop. They have scored 50 points and allowed their opponents total of one TD. The Panthers have mixed a good ground gaining game with an adequate passing game. Smackover would be a big hurdle for the Panthers to clear.

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—A burning tractor-trailer truck crashed into a store four miles east of Walnut Ridge today, fatally injuring a grocer and setting fire to the building.

Eugene Bookout, 28, who with his wife operated the grocery store, service station and beauty parlor, died in the flames that destroyed the building.

Four other persons in the building escaped unhurt. They were Mrs. Bookout, her daughter Denise, 5, her brother Kelly Waddell, 11, and her sister, Mona Sue Waddell, 9.

The truck driver, Billy E. Hodges, 25, of Russellville, Ark., was taken to a Walnut Ridge hospital suffering from cuts and bruises.

Hodges said he was driving his truck, loaded with chickens, toward Missouri when the motor caught fire. He said the cab filled with smoke and he was unable to brake the truck.

Hodges said he got out onto the fender extension and steered the truck to the left toward a cotton field and when he thought he had it headed into the field, he jumped.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Seven youths were drowned Sunday night when their automobile failed to negotiate a curve, slammed through a steel fence and plunged into a shipping canal.

The tangled bodies of six were found inside the car, and a seventh body was found by divers this morning. The car was raised from the Black Rock Canal by police and fire wreckers after its headlights were seen shining in the water.
